

Supporting Canadian communities during COVID-19

Amgen lives its “Mission to Serve Patients” and their communities by providing supplies, expertise and donations where they’re needed. The impact of the Amgen Canada response is valued at over $1 million.

Supporting governments and healthcare authorities with urgent needs

Amgen Canada is responding to urgent needs as identified by government including contributing substantially to a major industry effort to obtain 100,000 N95 masks for communities across Canada

Sending aid to hospitals and frontline healthcare professionals

Amgen is making a considerable donation to the CanadaHelps COVID-19 Healthcare and Hospital Fund supporting charities and hospital foundations providing medical response efforts, lifesaving aid and critical equipment

Supporting patients through the crisis

Amgen Canada will provide prescribed Amgen medicines free-of-charge to Canadians who are currently on an Amgen medicine and no longer have prescription drug benefits as a result of loss of employment due to COVID-19, and who do not qualify for public reimbursement

Helping patients support each other

Amgen Canada is making donations to patient associations for special COVID-19 related programs and providing support to those organizations that have experienced hardship during the pandemic, allowing them to continue their important work

Getting involved on the ground

Through the COVID-19 Amgen Canada Volunteering Program, Amgen facilitates opportunities for its highly skilled staff to volunteer and address local gaps in COVID-19 relief efforts

Doubling the impact of giving

Amgen Canada is encouraging employees to make charitable donations to COVID-19 relief efforts— and through the Amgen Foundation Disaster Relief Matching Gifts Program, the impact of their generosity will be doubled

Providing relief to vulnerable populations

Amgen Canada is giving a significant donation to the CanadaHelps COVID-19 Community Care Fund to provide basics such as food and shelter as well as respond to the unique needs of children, isolated seniors, and others who require special assistance

Fostering science learning and education

As part of its ongoing commitment to supporting science education, the Amgen Foundation supports the Khan Academy and LabXchange, which are providing digital science learning. And Amgen Canada has set aside funds specifically to support its science education partners to finance COVID-19 related needs
